DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102.

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1,2 and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ohkawa (6,334,690).

Ohkawa discloses at least one lamp (7); a reflector surrounding the lamp, (8) a side of said reflector facing towards said lamp being reflecting (fig 1), said reflector being formed with an emission opening for emission of light (outer area, located in front of the curved reflective surface is an "emission opening"); and an optical element arranged in or before the emission opening for deflecting light beams which enter into and exit from the optical element such that light beams exit from said optical element at an exit angle which is smaller than a predetermined limit exit angle(24, fig 2), said optical element having a plate-like core of transparent material which is occupied on one side with microprisms formed by furrows, said microprisms having roots from which said microprisms taper (2a), said reflector being shaped and arranged with reference to said lamp that in substance only light beams reflected at said reflector can exit said emission opening through said optical element (figs 1-4); the reflector has an inner side towards said lamp which inner side is formed to be diffusely reflecting (8); a second optical element (D, 5a, 5b) at an exit angle which is smaller than a predetermined limit exit angle, said second optical element being of the same construction as said first optical element; the microprisms of said second optical element likewise having an elongate structure, said second optical element being arranged parallel to said first optical elements, and said microprisms of said second optical element extending transversely to said microprisms of said first optical element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Okhawa as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Akahane et al (5,667,289).

5. Okhawa discloses the claimed invention except for the inner side of the reflector being painted white. Akahane discloses a white reflective coating on a reflective surface. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a white paint on the reflector surface, since as shown by Akahane, motivation to cover reflective surfaces with white paint would promote diffusiveness on the reflector and is a well known procedure.
